

Elon Musk Makes His Batteries Out Of Dead Children

By Debbie Lester

Elon Musk's South African father was a harsh racist and he beat the hatred for black people into Elon Musk. Musk's mother was a trophy wife arm-candy type of person who went along with the racism because South African blacks were always hitting on her when she was young.

The many sex abuse and racism lawsuits against Elon Musk and Tesla Motors testify to Musk's closed-minded outlooks. Nothing testifies to his hatred of blacks, though, more than his child labor camps in The Congo and China where the lithium, cobalt and other raw materials and manufacturing for his lithium ion batteries takes place.

Literally, Elon Musk has built his fortunes on the piles of dead children's bodies in his lithium and cobalt mine child labor camps.
