

WHO IS WHO IN THE CLEANTECH CRASH CASE

Update 6

Confirmation connection data proving the financial, operational and political confirmed relationships, between all of the following, provided by: Law enforcement case files; FOIA's; journalists; financial record tracking; HSBC & other published leaks; tax evasion tracking investigations, employees; XKEYSCORE, Palantir, Recorded Future, Google and related investigation matrix and Fusion center databases; authorized email, phone call, gps & text surveillance; and other materials known to investigators.

The Dirty Senators:

At least two U.S. Senators engaged in insider trading, illegal funds transfer, sabotage of competitors to their backers, self-dealing and kick-back programs with Tesla, Solyndra and Nevada Cleantech programs. and illegal funds transfer.

The Russians:

Russian Mining companies and their investors had arrangements to mine the Cleantech minerals and also owned some of the CleanTech companies that Steven Chu gave money to. The core deals were originally premised on U.S. control of Afghanistan, where most of the mining deals were targeted; but that didn't work out so well. U.S. taxpayers questioned why Steven Chu gave emergency U.S. taxpayer cash to Russian billionaire owned companies Ener1, Severstal and others. Blogoyavitch and Musk connections are still being investigated. Kleiner Perkins had formed a partnership with some of the Russians, now on U.S. "watchlists".

In-Q-Tel:

Provided digital and media hit-job resources and data manipulation technology services. In-Q-Tel is a sister organization to Eric Schmidt's New America Foundation. Eric Schmidt & John Doerr are in published media as their biggest promoters. Notorious for having five tons of cocaine on their airplanes. In-Q-Tel says they are part of the CIA. The CIA says they are not.

New America Foundation:

Sister organization to In-Q-Tel. Post White House resting place of some of the suspects. Lobbyist organization directed by Eric Schmidt. Called a "Think Tank" but major media refers to them as a Silicon Valley political leverage company.

Gawker Media & Nick Denton:

The Sidney Blumenthal-esque media hit-job arm of the Silicon Valley Cartel. Now facing a lawsuit with a famous celebrity they also defamed in another hired political hit-job.

Steven Chu:

Associate of the Cartel. Arranged all funds to only go to Cartel members companies and actively sabotaged competitors to the Cartel. Was nominated by the same group who nominated Eric Holder. Quit, in disgrace, after bi-partisan national media called him "inept" & "corrupt."

The United States Department of Energy:

Federal agency where 80% of the scheme was conducted alongside the TARP crony deals.

IBM Consulting Group & Argonne National Laboratories:

The original D.O.E. review groups that Steven Chu's and Rahm Emanuel's staff had manipulated D.O.E. application comparisons to benefit the Cartel, exclusively. Rahm Emanuel had a close personal relationship with Argonne.

Robert Gibbs:

White House Press Secretary at the time of the set-up of XYZ.
Immediately resigned when confronted by investigators about XYZ

David Axelrod:

Senior White House Advisor at the time of the set-up of XYZ. Immediately resigned when confronted by investigators about XYZ

Steven Rattner:

White House “Car Czar” working in the West Wing to coordinate the cash to Detroit. Resigned suddenly. Then was indicted for Securities fraud. Then went to work for Eric Schmidt’s New America Foundation.

The Silicon Valley Cartel:

A criminal-level Cartel per the classic definition of the term. Comprised of new money billionaires in Silicon Valley who had formed a Cartel business alliance to seek to control state and federal public policy in order to gain exclusive power and profit benefits. Uncovered in the “AngelGate Scandal”, The “Silicon Valley Anti-Poaching Scandal” and The Corbett Report expose documentaries. Holding billions of dollars in resources and novel “weaponry” , such as the spy tactics of In-Q-Tel, the lobby clout of New America Foundation and the control of which news media is allowed on the web via Cartel-controlled Google.

The National Venture Capital Association (NVCA):

The grandfathers of The Silicon Valley Cartel. James Breyer and Gilman

Louie were the instigators of both In-Q-Tel and NVCA. All of them work aggressively on stock market control, valuation collusion, public policy and federal law steering and outsider termination tactics.

John Doerr:

One of the “Godfathers” of the Silicon Valley Cartel. Controlled the majority of the operation.

Kleiner Perkins:

The most notorious VC company in the Cleantech Scam. Founder, Mr. Perkins was shamed globally for calling poor people: “Nazi’s” for being so poor and not accepting billionaires as their masters. Partner, Khosla was sued by California for locking off California’s most pristine public beach because “he said so”. Associate Ray Lane was indicted for massive tax evasion. The whole company was sued for misogyny and sex abuse by a former senior staffer. Almost everyone at Kleiner is from the same few frat houses.

McKinsey Consulting:

The arrested Raj Gupta was working at McKinsey on the XYZ scam. Kleiner Perkins and the Silicon Valley Cartel had McKinsey author and blanket, via mass distribution, Washington DC officials with their white papers. Ironically, every single one of the white papers pitched Congress on a dire future unless funds were allocated for Project X: In a funny coincidence Kleiner Perkins already owned all of the components of Project X.

Elon Musk, Tesla Motors, Solar City and Space X:

Recently exposed in the national media as the individual who is the largest recipient of taxpayer give-ways from The White House, in U.S. History. A campaign finance kickback scheme is suspected. His technologies keep blowing up on main-stream media. Partnered with Kleiner Perkins and Google. Sued for fraud by partners, suppliers, employers, wives and customers. Closely affiliated with Steven Chu's staff and the financial partner of the two U.S. Senators that helped him get his taxpayer money.

Deloitte Consulting:

Was the Cartel's Consultant, Tesla and Solyndra's financial managers and Steven Chu's review consultant in a dramatic conflict of interest.

Solyndra:

The first one of the Cartel companies to be publicly raided by the FBI. The public has not seen the entire results of the Solyndra investigation. The Solyndra failure and sudden bankruptcy, immediately after received a massive amount of U.S. taxpayer cash was found to be suspicious. A sequence of failures from the Steven Chu/Cartel scam followed with Abound, A123, Ener1, Fisker, and on and on, under very suspicious circumstances. The losses to the U.S. taxpayer continue to escalate.

Eric Schmidt:

Silicon Valley Cartel senior member. Runs Google. Uses Google to manipulate the web to attack competitors and politicians the Cartel does not like. Spent more time in the White House, manipulating U.S. laws than all of the members of Congress, put together.

Goldman Sachs:

Was participant, partner, organizer in every one of the Steven Chu and Kleiner Cleantech & Afghan Russian deals. Scraped fees, skims and tax credits at every level of each deal. Made huge profits off companies that got huge amounts of state and federal taxpayer cash and suddenly, mysteriously, went bankrupt.

Gary D. Conley:

One of the first whistle-blowers whose death is suspected to be a result of the Cartel. Rajeev Motwani, David Bird and over 80+ other suspicious deaths related to the case have caused concern.

Eric Holder:

Nominated by same group that Nominated Steven Chu via Covington and Burling. Provided cover at DOJ.
